DETAILED ACTION

1. Amendment filed on 11/10/03 is acknowledged. Claims 1-5 are pending in the Application.
2. The examiner considered the reference of the supplemental IDS; however form 1449 for IDS should be provided for the examiner's signature.

Response to Amendment

3. The amendment failed to overcome the rejections established in the previous Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.
5. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:
 1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
 2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
 3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
 4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
6. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

7. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jones et al. (J. Dairy Sci.).

Jones teaches the “use of near infrared reflectance spectroscopy in forage testing” (Title), which comprises NIR analysis of forage for crude protein (CP), acid-detergent (ADF) and neutral-detergent (NDF) fiber and minerals compared with wet chemical results. “Forage was routinely tested by oven drying at 60° C and grinding with a Wiley mill through a 2-mm screen” (Abstract). The maturity of plants is an intrinsic feature of the method, since the plants are used as forage. Choosing several representatives of the plants from different populations by “visual survey” is a standard procedure for obtaining statistically averaged results.

While Jones does not specifically indicate grinding and analyzing the plants which were not pre-dried, it would have been obvious for anyone of ordinary skill in the art to modify his procedure by grinding and analyzing fresh plants in order to determine e.g. the water content in the plants. It would have been obvious for anyone of ordinary skills in the art to scan the obtained mass at a plurality of locations in order to average the results of analysis, since these results depend on homogeneity obtained by grinding, which is not perfect. It would have been obvious for anyone of ordinary skill in the art to use any type of grinder, including a bowl grinder, which allows achieving homogeneity of the ground mixture.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments filed 11/10/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The Applicants admit that the method of analyzing corn plants using IR spectroscopy is well known in the art. Choosing several representatives from different levels of population in order to obtain an average statistical result is a standard procedure in any statistical survey, and it would have been obvious for anyone of ordinary skill in the art to apply such approach to analysis of the large population of corn plants.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
